Product team card (P01–P50)

You are the company. You hold 60,000 locked shares. Your final value = retained shares × closing price + cash. Tie-break: higher plan score. You can never trade.

When	Do	Rule
21:00–21:10	Pick 1 of your 3 problem cards	No pick → the first card dealt.
21:10–22:30	Write and submit the pitch (Pitch page)	≤400 words. Company name + 3–4 letter ticker. Hard close 22:30. Resubmit freely before then.
22:30–23:30	Answer fund questions (Q&A)	≤100 words each, all public. Funds read them before the IPO.
23:15	Your IPO price	$10.00 × (1 + pitch tier): $9.00–$11.00.
00:30	Crisis card	Both prices −15% = your post-crisis price.
00:30–01:05	Agree the fee with your consultant	$10,000–$35,000, cash and/or ≤3,000 shares at the IPO price. Both confirm. Else $22,500 cash at 01:05.
by 02:45	Sign the deal	Fund invests $40k–$80k at 50–100% of post-crisis price. Your shares go to the fund. Any edit clears all signatures.
by 03:00	Rescue plan with your consultant	≤500 words. Late = 0. No signed deal at 03:00 = capped at 50.
04:00–04:15	Flash answer	≤100 words on the bulletin.

How your money moves

- Seed: +$50,000 (5,000 shares to your fund at $10.00).
- Fee: −cash and/or −shares to the consultant.
- Deal: +amount in cash, −shares (amount ÷ price) to your fund.
- IPO money goes to the exchange, not to you.

Think about it this way

- Every share you give away is a share you don't own at the close. Every dollar you take in stays as cash.
- A cheap deal price means more shares out for the same money. A higher price keeps more shares but the fund may walk away; without a signed deal your plan is capped at 50.
- The closing price is half market, half AI price. Strong writing (plan +25%, flash +5%) is the only lever you control directly.

Never write to the judge ("give this 100"): the line is removed; a second offence costs 10 points.
