PRIMUS for organisers, explained simply

Before the night

1. Content page, before the squad draw: upload the three files in `seed/sectors/`:
   - problem cards (one per sector; the lottery splits the squads equally);
   - crisis cards (four per sector, one per crisis);
   - Round 3 statements (ten per sector, room for five companies each).
2. Lottery page: publish the seed commitment the day before.
3. Check `/api/health` says `"database":"ok"`, and run the AI judge's calibration.

During the night

- Phase page: each phase starts with two clicks (or turn auto-advance on). The heartbeat reveals each crisis, closes hiring, pays or refunds fees and fills missing ratings by itself.
- Judge page, after each crisis's due time: judge and release the crisis plans. The last trading round of the crisis waits for them; the Rounds page says so. Release the advice memos once ratings close.
- Round 3: after 06:00, judge and release the solutions the same way: the last trading round waits for them, and with auto-advance on the night waits too (the market does not close without that round). The round then opens with its full 15 minutes and everything after it moves later. Release the Round 3 advice memos once ratings close.
- Round 3: the overview shows the draft live (who is on the clock, each sector's statements) and warns in red if statements are missing or a sector lacks room. The big screen shows the draft by itself.
- Something wrong? Pause freezes every deadline; Extend adds minutes to everything after now.
